Laws of the United States,
Passed at the Second Session of the Thirty-seventh Congress.

[PUBLIC ACT—No 1..]

An act to suppress insurrection, to punish Treason and Rebellion, to seize and confiscate the property of Rebels, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That every person who shall hereafter commit the crime of treason against the United States, and shall be adjudged guilty thereof, shall suffer death, and all his slaves, if any, shall be declared and made free; or, at the discretion of the court, he shall be imprisoned for not less than five years, and fined not less than ten thousand dollars, and all his slaves, if any, shall be declared and made free; said fine shall be levied and collected on any or all of the property, real and personal, excluding slaves, of which the said person so convicted was the owner at the time of committing the said crime, any sale or conveyance to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That if any person shall hereafter incite, set on foot, assist, or engage in any rebellion or insurrection against the authority of the United States, or the laws thereof, or shall give aid or comfort thereto, or shall engage in, or give aid and comfort to, any such existing rebellion or insurrection, and be convicted thereof, such person shall be punished by imprisonment for a period not exceeding ten years, or by a fine not exceeding ten thousand dollars, and by the liberation of all his slaves, if any he have; or by both of said punishments, at the discretion of the court.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That every person guilty of either of the offences described in this act shall be forever incapable and disqualified to hold any office under the United States.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That this act shall not be construed in any way to affect or alter the prosecution, conviction, or punishment of any person or persons guilty of treason against the United States before the passage of this act, unless such person is convicted under this act.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That, to insure the speedy termination of the present rebellion, it shall be the duty of the President of the United States to cause the seizure of all the estate and property, money, stocks, credits, and effects of the persons hereinafter named in this section, and to apply and use the same and the proceeds thereof for the support of the army of the United States, that is to say:

First. Of any person hereafter acting as an officer of the army or navy of the rebels in arms against the government of the United States.

Secondly. Of any person hereafter acting as President, Vice President, member of Congress, judge of any court, cabinet officer, foreign minister, commissioner or consul of the so-called confederate states of America.

Thirdly. Of any person acting as governor of a state, member of a convention or legislature, or judge of any court of any of the so-called confederate states of America.

Fourthly. Of any person who, having held an office of honor, trust, or profit in the United States, shall hereafter hold an office in the so-called confederate states of America.

Fifthly. Of any person hereafter holding any office or agency under the government of the so-called confederate states of America, or under any of the several states of the said confederacy, or the laws thereof, whether such office or agency be national, state, or municipal in its name or character: Provided, That the persons thirdly, fourthly, and fifthly above described shall have accepted their appointment or election since the date of the pretended ordinance of secession of the state, or shall have taken an oath of allegiance to or to support the constitution of the so-called confederate states.

Sixthly. Of any person who, owning property in any loyal State or Territory of the United States, or in the District of Columbia, shall hereafter assist and give aid and comfort to such rebellion; and all sales, transfers, or conveyances of any such property shall be null and void; and it shall be a sufficient bar to any suit brought by such person for the possession or the use of such property, or any of it, to allege and prove that he is one of the persons described in this section.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That if any person within any State or Territory of the United States, other than those named as aforesaid, after the passage of this act, being engaged in armed rebellion against the government of the United States, or aiding or abetting such rebellion, shall not, within sixty days after public warning and proclamation duly given and made by the President of the United States, cease to aid, countenance, and abet such rebellion, and return to his allegiance to the United States, all the estate and property, moneys, stocks, and credits of such person shall be liable to seizure as aforesaid, and it shall be the duty of the President to seize and use them as aforesaid or the proceeds thereof. And all sales, transfers, or conveyances of any such property after the expiration of the said sixty days from the date of such warning and proclamation shall be null and void; and it shall be a sufficient bar to any suit brought by such person for the possession or the use of such property, or any of it, to allege and prove that he is one of the persons described in this section.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That to secure the condemnation and sale of any of such property, after the same shall have been seized, so that it may be made available for the purpose aforesaid, proceedings in rem shall be instituted in the name of the United States in any district court thereof, or in any territorial court, or in the United States district court for the District of Columbia, within which the property above described, or any part thereof, may be found, or into which the same, if movable, may first be brought, which proceedings shall conform as nearly as may be to proceedings in admiralty or revenue cases; and if said property, whether real or personal, shall be found to have belonged to a person engaged in rebellion, or who has given aid or comfort thereto, the same shall be condemned as enemies' property and become the property of the United States, and may be disposed of as the court shall decree and the proceeds thereof paid into the treasury of the United States for the purposes aforesaid.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That the several courts aforesaid shall have power to make such orders, establish such forms of decree and sale, and direct such deeds and conveyances to be executed and delivered by the marshals thereof where real estate shall be the subject of sale, as shall fitly and efficiently effect the purposes of this act, and vest in the purchasers of such property good and valid titles thereto. And the said courts shall have power to allow such fees and charges of their officers as shall be reasonable and proper in the premises.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That all slaves of persons who shall hereafter be engaged in rebellion against the government of the United States, or who shall in any way give aid or comfort thereto, escaping from such persons and taking refuge within the lines of the army; and all slaves captured from such persons or deserted by them and coming under the control of the government of the United States; and all slaves of such persons found on or being within any place occupied by rebel forces and afterwards occupied by the forces of the United States, shall be deemed captives of war, and shall be forever free of their servitude, and not again held as slaves.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That no slave escaping into any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, from any other State, shall be delivered up, or in any way impeded or hindered of his liberty, except for crime, or some offence against the laws, unless the person claiming said fugitive shall first make oath that the person to whom the labor or service of such fugitive is alleged to be due is his lawful owner, and has not borne arms against the United States in the present rebellion, nor in any way given aid and comfort thereto; and no person engaged in the military or naval service of the United States shall, under any pretence whatever, assume to decide on the validity of the claim of any person to the service or labor of any other person, or surrender up any such person to the claimant, on pain of being dismissed from the service.

Sec. 11. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States is authorized to employ as many persons of African descent as he may deem necessary and proper for the suppression of this rebellion, and for this purpose he may organize and use them in such manner as he may judge best for the public welfare.

Sec. 12. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States is hereby authorized to make provision for the transportation, colonization, and settlement, in some tropical country beyond the limits of the United States, of such persons of the African race, made free by the provisions of this act, as may be willing to emigrate, having first obtained the consent of the government of said country to their protection and settlement within the same, with all the rights and privileges of freemen.

Sec. 13. And be it further enacted, That the President is hereby authorized, at any time hereafter, by proclamation, to extend to persons who may have participated in the existing rebellion in any State or part thereof, pardon and amnesty, with such exceptions and at such time and on such conditions as he may deem expedient for the public welfare.

Sec. 14. And be it further enacted, That the courts of the United States shall have full power to institute proceedings, make orders and decrees, issue process, and do all other things necessary to carry this act into effect.

Approved, July 17, 1862.

An Act to provide for the more prompt settlement of the accounts of disbursing officers.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this act any officer or agent of the United States who shall receive public money which he is not authorized to retain as salary, pay, or emolument, shall render his accounts monthly, instead of quarterly, as heretofore, and such accounts, with the vouchers necessary to the correct and prompt settlement thereof, shall be rendered direct to the proper accounting officer of the Treasury, and be mailed or otherwise forwarded to its proper address within ten days after the expiration of each successive month. And in case of the non-receipt at the Treasury of any accounts within a reasonable and proper time thereafter, the officer whose accounts are in default shall be required to furnish satisfactory evidence of having complied with the provisions of this act; and for any default on his part the delinquent officer shall be deemed a defaulter, and be subject to all the penalties prescribed by the sixteenth section of the act of August sixth, eighteen hundred and forty six, "to provide for the better organization of the Treasury, and for the collection, safe-keeping, transfer, and disbursement of the public revenue." Provided, That the Secretary of the Treasury may, if in his opinion the circumstances of the case justify and require it, extend the time hereinbefore prescribed for the rendition of accounts. And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to restrain the heads of any of the Departments from requiring such other returns or reports from the officer or agent subject to the control of such heads of Departments as the public interest may require.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 21, 1862.

Report of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Notwithstanding the fact that the City Council by vote, refused to have the following report of the Committee on Ways and Means printed for the information of tax payers of the city, we have taken the trouble to procure a copy for publication, anyhow, deeming it of sufficient importance to demand the attention of every one who is interested in the financial condition of the city:

To the Common Council:

Your Committee, in pursuance of the Resolution passed November 5th, 1862, instructing them to make an estimate of the current expenses for the fiscal year ending July 1st, 1863, &c., report:

That the indebtedness of the past year, as near as they can ascertain from the account of orders drawn and orders paid, amounts to the sum of $2,646 08.

Estimates from Oct. 1st, 1862, to July 1st, 1863—nine months:

Expense of improvements of streets, say, First and North First streets, the half of Front and North Front streets, and the intermediate cross streets from Front to First, by grading and planking, will amount at least to $87,000, of which amount, under the provisions of the amendment to the charter, one-half is to be paid out of the City Treasury, amounting to..............	$43,500 00
One-half the amount of cost of necessary repairs to streets........	10,000 00
The appointment of six policemen and captain, contemplated by ordinance for 7 months	3,040 00
	$62,942 74

Total amount estimated..................	$81,297 74
Amount of last year's indebtedness brought forward	2,646 00
	$83,943 74

Your Committee further respectfully invite your attention to the subject of providing a suitable place for the burial of the dead. The city owns a parcel of ten acres of land, situated about one mile south of the city, which in its present unimpaired state, is said to be unfit for the purpose intended. Your Committee are not fully apprised as to the best plan to recommend respecting either the improvement of the ground now owned by the city, or the purchase of another parcel of land and improvement thereof, and therefore only suggest to your body that a suitable amount be raised by special tax to be applied specially to the purpose named of providing a suitable burial place; and in the judgment of the Committee the sum of $3,000 is little enough to provide to that end, which added to the amount before named—$83,943 74—makes a total amount of $86,943 74.

Your Committee are also aware that an Ordinance is now before your body, contemplating the improvement of the Public Square and the streets round about the same, but as it appropriates no specific amount for the purpose, your Committee can make no definite estimate of such expense, and can only judge by the estimate of the Engineer for the grading of the Squares, that there will be required for the improvement referred to, the further sum of $4,000, which added to the previous amount, makes $90,943 74.

Your Committee in concluding their report have to ask the indulgence of your body for that they have omitted to consider further, the subject of improvement of streets, so much required, and which the Committee believe would be done if the means adequate could be provided; but already the expense of the limited amount of improvement of streets estimated so swells the gross expenses of the year, that they know of no means to be provided to meet the same, and that either the further improvement of streets by the Corporation must be abandoned or great indebtedness incurred. Your Committee have also neglected to estimate any sum for the erection of two Engine houses which are now required for Fire Companies Nos. 3 and 4, (say to the amount of $11,000,) as they are fully aware that such things must be laid aside while the policy to be pursued in relation to the subject of improvement of streets under the provisions of the amended Charter is undetermined.

All of which with the Ordinance herewith is respectfully submitted.

(Signed.) A. B. HALLOCK,
T. J. HOLMES.

Portland, Nov. 19, 1862.

According to the showing of this Committee, the city will have to raise over one hundred thousand dollars to meet the expenses for the ensuing fiscal year, provided such improvements and repairs are made as are needed or in contemplation. We deem it unnecessary to say anything about the one hundred thousand dollars, as it is positively certain no such sum will be raised by the city within the next year. In fact, we think it extremely doubtful whether one quarter of this sum is raised for public purposes, as the revenue of the city has not averaged but little more than $14,000 annually, for the last two or three years; and when we reflect that other extraordinary taxes have been or will be levied upon our citizens, amounting to fearful sums, it is not reasonable to suppose that property-holders are going to suffer themselves to be still further burthened with municipal taxes, which, if levied in addition to those already demanded, would take one-half or two thirds of all they owned to meet. No such thing is going to be done, or if attempted, would be resisted to the bitter end.

But there is a question connected with this matter, which the people of Portland are called upon to decide, to wit: What shall be done with the revenue that will be raised for city purposes? How shall it be expended and for what purposes? The Committee inform us that the city is now some $2,600 in debt, and that contracts or agreements have already been entered into by the Common Council which will involve the expenditure of at least $20,000 more, saying nothing about the improvement or repairs of streets; one-half of which the present law provides shall be paid by the city.

A tax is about to be levied, and should have been before this, to meet these expenses. This tax is to be raised from the assessment returns of property already completed. According to the City Charter a tax of five mills on the dollar is the highest amount that can be levied by the City Council, and without knowing the exact total amount of taxable property reported by the Assessor, we predict that if the highest amount is levied, it will fall short of being sufficient to meet the demand. There is therefore, no possible help but for the city to become still deeper involved at the end of the next year, and still nothing further done towards public improvements than has already been ordered.

From Our Powder River Correspondent.

AUBURN, Nov. 7, 1862.

From the Dalles to Powder River is a ride of 240 miles and a country barren of interest save that we continually met teams, travelers, pack trains and dusty emigrants from off the plains. Late as the season was, we must have passed one hundred heavily loaded teams and many pack-trains bound hither, and numberless others bound back empty. Many emigrants were on their way "to the valley," being unprovided with provisions and means to winter as they would wish in the valleys of Grand Ronde and Powder rivers.

Since my leaving this place in the early summer there have been almost incomprehensible changes effected on the road. Even in the Blue mountains there have been convenient stopping places established where traveler and beast can find refreshment, and the never failing whisky bottle is at hand. Grand Ronde valley is becoming settled up, and many claims are located to be improved another season. Powder river valley for thirty miles is dotted with settlers, and many comfortable cabins offer meals at 75 cents where a few weeks ago there was not a resident.

Very few people have any idea that Baker county has as much good agricultural land as any other county in the State, yet such is undoubtedly the case, and the future of this section will be a lesson to those legislative carpers who were only willing to allow this county one Representative and half a Senator in the present apportionment.

One sign we saw written on a "shake," nailed to a post before a log cabin in Powder river valley, will speak volumes for the progress of the age in this region:

"Oh, yes! Mince Pies and Potatoes, Bread, Cakes, Butter and Milk, for sale here. Whisky!" The last item, which is the staff of life on the road, strychnine and all, modestly inserted in one corner.

At last I stood upon the well remembered ridge and looked down upon the "city of Auburn." A few weeks before I had left it and looked only upon a few scattered tents, picturesquely dotted upon the hill side. Now, I could hardly distinguish through the thick smoke that filled the gulch of Blue Canon the five hundred log houses—some hewed and some unhewed, but many of them well built, two stories high, and nicely chinked up with mortar made from the lime manufactured in the place, for we have lime-stone here, and a fair article of lime is furnished cheaper than can be had elsewhere in the State.

When I had a view of the town it looked bright with new hewn timber and new made shingles and roof boards, and the clatter and hammer of workmen filled the air. Every where new buildings rise, and a late count showed that there were at least 500 houses in the place, and probably a population that could poll 1,000 votes, and that too when 1,000 or 1,200 persons have gone to Boise river from here alone.

While I am on the subject of population, let me say that Mossman's Express came in last evening with an immense amount of letters. I am told they brought 200, and that will not only speak volumes for the progress of the place, but will show how much mail facilities are needed and deserved, though a good Express is to be preferred to a mismanaged post route.

The city election took place last Monday, and there was a musical time, as I am told. Some are ferociously threatening to "break the Charter," but everything seems to have been conducted in a proper manner, and much to the credit of the Auburnians all the officers elect are most capable and Union loving citizens, and no doubt the organization will materially contribute to the best interests of the place.

There was no political issue in the election. Everybody took a hand in it. There were some half a dozen candidates for ever office, everyone of whom nominated himself and did his own electioneering. The great difficulty was to get in a vote, as there being only one poll, not more than half the voters of the place were successful in the attempt though the polls were kept open until 10 o'clock at night. Some 500 votes were cast, and the successful candidates were Morass, Mayor; Rowe, from California, Recorder; Dauly, Treasurer.

There was a proper sprinkling of Californians and Web-feet. So the town is a city, officered and ready to be taxed. Draw it mildly, gentlemen, and during the scarcity of water, pray dont be too severe in taxing whisky.

There is scarcity of water, and consequently scarcity of "dust" in Auburn. There is no doubt of the richness of the mines, and let the floods come down and afford water in the gulches, and you will see Powder river dust in plenty.

There will be news from Boise before I write again, and you shall find it all there. There seems no doubt of rich and extensive mines on Boise river, and the latest reports name discoveries on Malheur river, sixty miles this side of Boise. A great portion of new arriving teams keep on for the new mines.

The County Court is organized, and law is all the rage. There is no end of legal talent, much of which has emigrated hither from the Eastward, and some of which is respectable in point of ability. The great question before them has been a load of frozen potatoes, at which legal gentlemen have had three trials, until finally the potatoes—frozen as they were—were in part consumed by the bar, potatoes being received in pay of fees, and the residue run away with. Three other suits are commenced on the potato question and variations, and probably will last until there are no vegetables left in the place. Law promises to be a favorite amusement to the people here, and there is need for much to keep the emigrant lawyers alive.

A sad accident occurred two days ago in the Comstock claim on French Gulch. Mr. Fuller, who had lately purchased an interest, was killed by the caving in of a bank, and his death was almost instantaneous. His funeral was largely attended, and much regret felt at his loss.

THE CAMPAIGN IN VIRGINIA.—The Washington Star is impatient because Gen. Burnside, who has been at the head of a large army for upwards of three or four days, does not cross the Rappahannock. To advance now is to precipitate a great battle, and if we conjecture Halleck's plan of the campaign correctly, this is not desirable until the forces at Suffolk and in North Carolina have secured the back door of Richmond, and a force advancing from Western Virginia gets within striking distance of Staunton, at the head of the Shenandoah Valley, so as to cut off the retreat of the rebel corps known to be posted between Winchester and Berryville. The advance of the main army, we surmise, will be timed by the complete success of Gen. Foster in North Carolina. Our telegraphic advices state that on the 4th of November this General, with a combined land and naval force, captured Hamilton, Martin county, on the left bank of the Roanoke. The enemy, though in strong force, precipitately retreated, which is an euphemism for skedaddled. Gen. Foster previously had an engagement with three thousand of the enemy, whom he routed with heavy loss. From Hamilton this energetic commander proceeded overland to Tarboro, on Tar river, about twelve miles from the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad. General Pettigrew of South Carolina, who was captured at Fair Oaks, is the rebel commander at Weldon. This very important position may also be threatened by an advance from Suffolk, Virginia, by Gen. Peck's forces. More than a week has elapsed since Foster was heard from. He had a full division of twelve thousand men, with forty pieces of artillery and cavalry. The distance between Tarboro and Weldon is not more than thirty-five miles. If Foster and Peck are really to meet in that vicinity, the rebels will be astonished to find a powerful army closing the southern gate of their Capital. This plan of campaign differs from the original one chiefly in the line of advance of the main army under Burnside.—Sac. Union.

Later from Europe.

Admiral Wilke's proceedings at Bermuda continue to claim attention. The Daily News remonstrates with President Lincoln on his appointment, and recommends his removal.

The Times is glad to see the Democrats making a show of force, and believes their success to be most promising for peace.

The London Post charges Russia with instigating a war in Greece.

Reports in regard to Garibaldi's health are conflicting.

Slidell had an interview with Napoleon on October 28th. It was reported that the National Assembly of Greece would tender the crown to Prince Alfred of England. King Otho had arrived at Vienna.

LONDON, Oct. 31st.—Cobden has addressed his constituents at Rochdale. Referring to American affairs he said it would be a waste of time to attempt to influence the combatants. To interfere in the war or recognize the South would do more harm than good.—He did not believe that if the war was brought to a termination it would end in the separation of the North and South. Interference by force, he thought, would do more to strengthen the Federal Government than any thing else, and the cost to England in six months would be more than sufficient to feed the distressed cotton operatives for years.

GUNPOWDER SUPERSEDED.—The latest explosive material consists of the flower of starch, which, boiled in a peculiar way with nitric acid, possesses, it is said, a far greater projectile force than the gunpowder in ordinary use. It is probably somewhat similar to gun cotton.

White's Patent Lever Trusses.—These instruments are recommended to the public as the best ever yet invented. The principle is new and different from any other. The Pad works over a Knuckle, giving it a circular INWARD and UPWARD motion, thus being able to support the rupture with half the pressure, required by other Trusses. The pain consequent upon heavy pressure is thereby avoided.
These instruments will not rust, and are the lightest, most durable and most cleanly of all others. They can be washed at pleasure. Many persons have been cured by them of ruptures of several years standing.

White's Fever and Agu Drops—For the cure of AGUE, PANAMA FEVER, NEURALGIA and GENERAL DEBILITY.
This medicine has been used in private practice for many years with great success. Indeed, in no instance has it failed to effect a speedy cure, to Ague especially, one bottle having been found sufficient in most cases and in none are more than two bottles required.
A great number of testimonials could be given to verify these statements, but the proprietor prefers relying upon the merits of the medicine alone. A cure is guaranteed in nine cases out of ten.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

ANOTHER RUN.—Another premature skedaddle took place in the City Council at its last session, leaving that honorable body without a quorum for the perfection of certain important business which should have been completed at that session. As has been previously remarked by us, we regard such action as too much like child's play, and to say the least, unbecoming members of this body who have the real interest of our city at heart. We still maintain that it is the duty, and our citizens have a right to expect, that each and all the members of this legislative branch of our municipal government should faithfully and impartially discharge the responsibilities imposed upon them, and which they have voluntarily pledged themselves to perform, whether they happen to be in the minority or majority of any question that may come before them for their action. They should further remember that the grand fundamental principle upon which all free governments rest, and especially this of ours, throughout its entire working, is a cheerful obedience to the will of the majority. Without this obedience to law, order or protection of any kind could exist, and no civil privileges, rights or guarantees could be enforced. Anarchy and sedition, riotings and destruction to life and property would immediately follow were we to adopt any other course; hence the necessity, the absolute duty which each man owes to himself and the community, to quietly and peacefully submit to the constitutional and only safe regulations of our system of government, national, State and local.

We have said thus much, not from a desire to censure those particularly who ran away on the evening referred to, but from the fact that we have seen too much of this, to use a common expression, "dog in the manger" policy on the part of members of the Council. We care not from what source it comes, or who are the parties parties concerned, we cannot endorse the action of any one who evinces a disposition to disrespect and override the decisions of legally constituted authorities, be they members of the Council or any other man.

It is due, however, to the gentlemen who did the skedaddling alluded to, to state that the excuse given by them for this action, was the lateness of the hour to which the session had lasted, and that they did not wish to sit there any longer under the probability of being "bored" with long winded speeches about nothing.

BEFORE JUSTICE ANDERSON.—A case involving serious charges, and which may yet result in disclosing a considerable amount of rascality, has attracted the attention of quite a number of our citizens and the "bummers" of the town. An effort was made last evening to have it brought to an issue, but from lack of sufficient available testimony the trial has been postponed until the first Monday in next month. We refrain from mentioning names or charges until facts shall determine their guilt or innocence.

LAWING.—The various courts, District, County and Justices of the Peace, are having a lively time this week, settling disputes between litigants and in punishing offenders against the peace and dignity of the city. A rich harvest for the lawyers.

CIRCUIT COURT.—We have the report of only two cases as having been disposed of yesterday, to-wit: P. Welch vs N. Staggs, verdict for plaintiff, $369 90. Motion for new trial.

Joel Palmer vs. M. Keith, verdict for p'ff, $198. W. C. Wilson vs James Brown, still on trial.

LOST CHILD.—A little girl some four years old strayed away last evening, and was taken in at the Howard House. She gave her name as Mary. The City Marshal was out at last accounts looking to find her home.

We call the attention of our readers to the new advertisements in to day's issue.

A HE-WOLF.—We notice that C. H. De Wolfe, after vainly trying most other papers in this State and Washington Territory, at last found space in the Eugene Republican, for nearly a two-column advertisement,(?) in which he ventilates himself against all the world and the rest of mankind, but more especially against John F. Damon of the North West, and Doctor Henry of the Standard. De Wolfe is probably paving the way for a desertion of the woman he was caused to marry according to the laws of the land, contrary to his will.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.—There will be in the next Congress 88 Republicans and 82 Democrats, or 6 Republican majority in the House of Representatives, the political aspect of the House is not likely to be changed from what it is at present—Republicans 30, Democrats and Border States Unionists 18.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO SANITARY FUND.—Amount previously acknowledged, $14,062 82.

From citizens at Pleasant Hill Church, Polk county, collected by Rev. N. A. Starr as follows: Job Conner, J. Lamson, $20 each; H. T. Graves, H. M. Lamson, E. Buell, C. Buell, [illegible] each; T. W. Graves, 7; N. A. Starr, J. S. Martin, Sarah Buell, N. Conner, P. A. Conner, W. Graves, 5 each; J. Wallace, A. E. Buell, [illegible] each; B. Booth, W. H. McKune, W. Conner, [illegible] Bively, D. Hosea, 2 50 each; J. Jackson, [illegible] Peterson, G. Dyer, L. E. Bewby, E. Conner, John Miller, D. Harris, 2 each; J. H. Wallace, [illegible] McCath, 1 50 each; G. Seward, G. C. Lichfield, Cash, H. Hagood, B. Franklin, W. J. Andrews, Mary Hagood, Emma [illegible], S. A. McKune, A. Miller, Mary Bively, J. K. Conner, Mary Conner, Mary Wallace, 1 each; Wm McKune, [illegible] Miller, N. M. Conner, M. Conner, E. B. Conner, Mary Harris, 50 cents each; W. Franklin, 25 cents; Nelly 10 cents. Total—$14,[illegible] 17.

The Department of Agriculture

The organization of this new and long called for and important Department, established by Congress at its last session, is a matter of interest to the whole country. It is, we understand, progressing in a satisfactory and encouraging manner, and we have reason to believe that in the course of a month or two it will be found in good working order and accomplishing all that can be fairly expected under the limited appropriations of the last Congress.

Mr NEWTON, the Commissioner of Agriculture, has the character of being a practical farmer of much experience. During a period involving an ordinary lifetime, he has attentively and industriously cultivated extensive tracts of land in the States of Pennsylvania and Virginia (his farm in the latter State comprising three thousand acres) in a manner which has commanded the admiration of the best agriculturists in the country.

The idea and plan of an Agricultural Department, under the auspices of the General Government, was, we learn, first submitted and perseveringly urged by Mr Newton several years before a handful of seed and a few stalks of wheat were exhibited on an ordinary dining table in the north end of the Patent Office building. At first the new project was treated as visionary and impracticable, but, nothing daunted, this energetic gentleman (well aware of the valuable services rendered by a man who could produce two ears of corn where only one grew before) possessing in an eminent degree all that quiet but indomitable perseverance which characterizes the Society of Friends, of which he is a prominent and esteemed member, brought forth new and convincing arguments, adduced valuable results from initiatory measures, until the subject and the facts became too apparent to remain unheeded.

Mr Newton holds his important position by the keen discrimination and sound judgment of President Lincoln, sustained by a large majority of Senators and Members of the House of Representatives, and approved by a large portion of the leading agriculturists of our land.

DOUGLAS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND HABEAS CORPUS.—The rebel sympathizing papers in this State are fond of making occasional quotations from the writings of Webster, whom, when living, they aspersed and slandered. We give them below something from Democratic authority, which they can with a little more consistency regard and appreciate. We quote from Douglas on the Constitution and the acts of General Jackson under it:

"The necessity and glorious effect resulting from the cause which that necessity prompted [suspension of the habeas corpus at New Orleans] were acknowledged by the whole country, and he would even say by the whole civilized world. Then, so far as this bill was concerned, he (Douglas) could not say whether their acts were legal or illegal. He cared not whether General Jackson violated the Constitution or not. He cared not whether General Jackson suspended civil authority or not. If his acts were necessary to the defense of his country, that necessity was above all law. * * * * * *

Talk about illegality! Talk about formalities!! Why, there was but one formality to be observed, and that was the formality of directing the cannon and destroying the enemy regardless of the means, whether it be by the seizure of cotton bags or the seizure of persons, if the necessity of the case required it. The God of nature has conferred this right on men and nations, and therefore let him not be told that it was unconstitutional. To defend the country, let him not be told that it was unconstitutional to use the necessary means. The Constitution was adopted for the protection of the country, and under that Constitution the nation had the right to exercise all the powers that were necessary for the protection of the country. If martial law was necessary for the protection of the country martial law was legal for the purpose. If it was necessary for a Judge, for the preservation of order, to punish a contempt, he thought it was necessary for a General to exercise control over his cannon, to imprison traitors, and to arrest spies, and to intercept communications with the enemy. If this was necessary this was legal."—Douglas' speech on refunding General Jackson's fine—Congressional Globe January 10th, 1844.

CORINTH.—The rebel loss at Corinth (second battle) was, killed (or buried by the Union troops,) 1,200, wounded, 3,000, prisoners 6,000. The Federal loss was 360 killed, 1,500 wounded, and 300 prisoners. As part of the Union troops were in entrenchments behind heavy batteries, they allowed the rebels to approach within close musket range before firing, the artillery were at the same time discharging their cannon, which were double shotted with grape and canister. The rebel defeat there is said to have been the most decisive of the war, and would have resulted in their utter dispersion had not the pursuit, as usual on our part, been discontinued too early.

M Jules Gerrard the renowned lion killer, is projecting an expedition into Central Africa, the object being to find a favorable place to establish an independent settlement between Sierra Leone and the source of the Niger for the purpose of promoting the intercourse and extending the relations between Europe and Africa. The explorers also contemplate an attempt to reach Algiers from Timbuctoo.

Flax.

[illegible] attention of farmers is well known [illegible] directed to the great [illegible] and importance of cultivating flax as one of the regular crops. The war now progressing in a portion of the United States has already caused a great diminution [illegible] and is destined to [illegible] still greater. This article of clothing, once so plentiful and cheap, has already become [illegible] and there is no doubt but that [illegible] will serve to direct the attention of [illegible] to the raising of flax not only for the oil but the cloth it yields. [illegible] still more urged upon the farmers of Oregon through the columns of this paper the [illegible] we will at this time [illegible] the best approved method of cultivating this plant.

Experience has demonstrated that it is absolutely necessary to observe a rotation of crops when flax is one of the products of the farm. It will not do to follow one crop of flax by another. Within late [illegible] it is found inexpedient to sow a crop of flax upon the same field oftener than once in five years, and some insist that seven years should intervene.

When flax is grown, the following rotation has been recommended:

First year, [illegible] potatoes or turnips [illegible] with flax [illegible] hay.

This rotation is where the soil is fully of an average quality. In places it is unfit for wheat, that product can be omitted and the flax can be sown after potatoes. But when wheat can be raised, it is best to have that crop succeeded by flax. In order to raise a good crop a thorough tilth of the soil must be secured.

When this crop follows wheat it is advisable to give the land at least two plowings, and unless the soil is light and friable, the third plowing should be made. The first plowing should be as soon after harvest as is practicable, and the other one or two as early in the spring as can be done. It would also be advisable, if it be practicable, that the spring plowing should be some little time before the flax is to be sown, so that the weeds, if any are in the soil, can get started so as to be killed by the harrowing in of the flax seed.

After the seed has been sown, the ground should be rolled, which will leave the seed covered about one inch in depth.

It is absolutely essential that the ground should be in perfect tilth and quite free from weeds in order to secure a good crop of flax. This crop is one that expects great pains before it will confer large yields. The slovenly system of farming which is altogether too common among us is not at all suited to the requirements of this plant. As it is one of the most valuable crops of the field, so it requires the most care and pains.

We are confident that the soil of Oregon is well adapted to the culture of flax, and are assured that no one crop can be made to yield more remunerative returns. And we believe that ere long this crop will be extensively raised not only for the oil its seeds produce but also for the manufacture of linen from its stalks. The partial dethronement of King Cotton, whose tenure is of but recent date, may perhaps be the signal for the restoration of King Flax who until recently held undisputed sway from the remotest period of antiquity.
